

An Inquiry Planner

The iFocus Topic  What do you think you know about the iFocus topic? What puzzles you about the iFocus topic?	Your Questions – Round 1  What questions do you have about the iFocus topic at this stage?	Sharing Your Thinking  View the questions of your peers What connections can you make to their thinking? What new questions do you have about the topic now as a result of considering the thinking of others?
Your Questions – Round 2  What questions do you have about the iFocus topic now? Which 3 priority questions will you now seek answers to?	Setting Goals  What could you achieve by finding answers to your questions? (e.g. a performance , a service, a product) Who could you seek feedback from with regard to what you hope to achieve?	Investigating  Do you have a hypothesis/prediction about what you might find? What information sources will/could you use to investigate your questions?
Interpreting  Which are the most important ideas or themes coming out of the information you have gathered? Does the information you have gathered help you to answer the questions you posed? Is there a better question that you could have asked in Round 2?	Communicating Your Ideas  How would you explain what you have learned? What is the best way to communicate what you have learned? Who could give you the most relevant feedback about what you have done? What avenues do you have for further action and application of your learning?	Reflection  What new ideas did you get from the inquiry that extended your knowledge or sent your thinking in new direction? What challenges or puzzles have come up in your mind as a result of your work? What did you do really well? What do you think you could do better for your next inquiry process?